

NewNet Communication Technologies FOUNDATIONS FOR NETWORK INNOVATION

NOVEMBER 29, 2011

Greetings, and welcome to the NewNet Update.

Earlier today, NewNet Communication Technologies announced plans to acquire the former Motorola Solutions' WiMAX business from Nokia Siemens Networks. This acquisition will include the complete WiMAX product portfolio, all related employees and assets, as well as active customer and supplier contracts. Approximately 300 globally deployed Nokia Siemens Networks employees are expected to transfer to NewNet, and the deal is expected to close before December 31st.

"Today's addition enhances the breadth of NewNet's product portfolio, R&D capabilities, customer relationships and our overall market position in providing wireless infrastructure solutions to carriers on a global basis. We're thrilled at the prospect of welcoming a world-class group of WiMAX pioneers and thought leaders to the NewNet team," said Ron Pyles, president and CEO of NewNet.

According to Crossfire Media's Carl Ford, "This is a very worthy acquisition because the story is about the people, the transformation, and how the technology will be used in the future. WiMAX's legacy will be clearly seen in Fixed Access and Wireless Backhaul, and this is a great move for NewNet, in my opinion." Crossfire and IMC are the producers of the Super Wifi Summit, 4CWE, and the M2M Evolution Conference at ITEXPO.

The WiMAX product line will provide a variety of growth opportunities for NewNet. The WiMAX team brings strong relationships with over 40 service providers worldwide, including the largest WiMAX service provider. NewNet will grow the business organically through these relationships and will aggressively target new markets for the technology.
